General Information

Melbourne is the state capital of Victoria, smallest of all Australian mainland states and about the same size as Great Britain.

In the south of the state, Melbourne is located on the Yarra River, and the northern shore of Port Phillip Bay. Melbourne is accurately described as the most European of Australia's cities and is home to a rich cultural diversity, noticeably reflected in the cuisines and lifestyle the city enjoys.

The city was first founded in 1835, and is home to a population of around 3.2 million.

If "variety is the spice of life", Melbourne's climate definitely contributes to the taste of the city. Locals are known for their skill in dressing in removable layers. You can always be sure, if it's a good day, Melburnians will be out there enjoying it to the most.
